

Dan Rogers President

Dan joined Blach in 2001 as a program manager and quickly progressed into a senior management role. One of two project executives, he oversaw a team of project managers, engineers and assistants. His rapid ascent continued with his promotion to Vice President, Operations and shortly thereafter, he assumed the role of executive vice president & COO. A highly engaged, strategic and decisive leader, he was included in the Silicon Valley Business Journals' "40 Under 40" list in 2007 and was named their 2017 "COO of the Year."

Even before he became Blach's President in 2017, Dan made tremendous strides in developing the firm's service offerings. With a high degree of foresight and an eye on safety, quality and in-house expertise, he is continually finding new and innovative ways to provide greater value to clients. He has led expansion efforts into new markets and geographical areas. And under his tenure, Blach has added notable corporate, education, institutional and mixed-use clients that include well-known tech and biomedical pioneers, world-renowned universities and institutions, venture capital firms and several Bay Area developers.

Dan began his professional career with Summerhill Homes after graduating from California State University, Chico with a degree in Construction Management. He then transitioned to Stanford University Capital Planning & Management, where he managed the University's $500M building program, including more than $200M of educational, athletics, housing and infrastructure improvements. Since joining Blach, he has been active in a number of industry and community organizations, including the Associated General Contractors (AGC), and on the boards of the Boys & Girls Club of Silicon Valley and the Air Systems Foundation.
